The national network and data platform will help put in place a framework to share the latest advances and best ideas in treating children with IBD, and to apply them as promptly as possible in new treatment regimes built on the principles of standardized high quality patient focused care.

The request for proposal has been completed and the collaborative agreement between CIHR and CH.I.L.D. Foundation has been established and approved by the Board of Directors of the CH.I.L.D. Foundation.

A webinar has been presented early this month to discuss the initiative and application process with the Canadian Pediatric I.B.D. scientific community and the Official Signing Ceremony with the Government of Canada, the Canadian Institute for Health Research and the CH.I.L.D. ## A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

We have an amazing month ahead of us, the most important being the launching of the Canadian Children Inflammatory Bowel Disease Network: A Joint Partnership of CIHR and CH.I.L.D. Foundation. A press announcement on behalf of the Federal Government will be coming soon, which will be both the culmination of a decade of planning and the beginning of collaboration between patients and families and researchers across the Nation. A sad side of this story will be the absence of our hard-working Director Dr. Singh, who was very much a part of the planning and who died a few short months ago. Our thanks to our Executive Director Tim Murphy, who has spent the last couple of years wholly working on this landmark agreement to put in place a network and data platform joining researchers across Canada. Thanks to the team at CIHR headed by Dr. Alain Beaudet with Dr. Phil Sherman and Paul Belanger. This will be the very first time in Canadian history for collaboration of this kind in the world of IBD. Our generous donors, including the Province of British Columbia, have played a huge part in this initiative coming to fruition. Because of this collaboration, children will have better health outcomes on our determined road to a cure.

Working For A Cure,

Mary Parsons

REMEMBERING WITH GRATITUDE

Dr. Parminder Singh Chauhan
November 15, 1940 ~ December 6, 2011

We will always remember Dr. Parminder Singh Chauhan, for his compassion towards others and for his helpful, passionate and caring nature. Dr. Singh was a very valued Director for the CH.I.L.D. Foundation since 2001, most recently being the Board Liaison with the CH.I.L.D. Foundation Gastroenterology Lab and Children's Hospital. Dr. Singh passed away last December and is survived by his wife of 46 years, Narinder, their children Harpreet, Neelu and Kulwant, and seven beautiful grandchildren. Dr. Singh touched many lives through his pediatric practice in Surrey over 37 years and through his very active involvement on the Boards of the CH.I.L.D. Foundation, the Childhood Obesity Foundation and the Chauhan Family Foundation. We will miss Dr. Singh greatly.

Our heartfelt sympathy and thanks to the families of deceased Friends of CH.I.L.D. these past few months: ANN ANGUS, HELEN DANG, HERB CAPOZZI, THELMA HOWARD, EMIRA LONGO, MILTON MURRILL, LUCY PEPE, MILTON WONG AND BRUCE ZIEN.

A "WONDERLAUGH" CONTRIBUTION!

This past Winter season, the Templeton and Carson Graham Secondary Schools banded together to present a "Winter Wonderlaugh" Improv Comedy Show! Parents and members of the community enjoyed the festive production, while the CH.I.L.D Foundation received a generous donation of $1000!

Our sincere appreciation goes out to both High school programs for their interest and support, and a special thanks to Producers Jim Crescenzo, Tanya Zambrano and Darren Dissegna.

Come join us this upcoming Saturday, July 7th at the North Shore Winter Club 1325 East Keith Road, North Vancouver B.C. as we hope for a sunny summer day! At Noon sharp, teams from all over Metro Vancouver dive into the deep end to compete for this year's biggest and best dressed BELLY SPLASH!!!

Families and fans are welcome to cheer on their favourite team at this community event while supporting the CH.I.L.D. Foundation and Autism Canada. Partial funds raised will go towards ongoing research for Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD).

Put your feet up at the 'Tiki Bar' and enjoy live music and entertainment, while soaking up the summer sun or perhaps getting soaked yourself! Celebrity judges will be looking for audience participation and applause for the new World Champions! Belly Splash teams of Four are still welcome and encouraged to enter by going to bellysplash.com. See you by the pool!

FASHION SHOW FOR CH.I.L.D. 2012

IN THE LAB...

How Our Gut Bacteria Talk To Us An Important Conversation in Health and Disease

By Natasha Ryz, PhD Candidate

The human body is teeming with bacteria – in fact; the average healthy person has 10x more bacterial cells in their body than human cells! Although this may sound alarming, the normal bacteria found in our body play a very important role in keeping us healthy. For instance, the good bacteria in our intestine can break down fibers from our diet, make vitamins we need to survive, compete with invading bacteria and even boost our immune system. You can think of these bacteria as good neighbors or tenants, and they live inside you-making you their landlord!

As long as you have good bacterial tenants, you will remain healthy and in part, this reflects good communication between gut bacteria and your intestinal cells. Bacteria can talk to our cells by using a type of “receiver” found on the surface of intestinal cells. This can be thought of as a telephone line that bacteria use to “call us”. Our bacteria make regular “phone calls” to give us an update on the status of our gut community. However, this communication changes when dangerous bacteria move into the intestinal neighborhood. The good bacteria may be evicted in a messy way (i.e. diarrhea) and the dangerous bacteria take over and cause damage to your gut. Once we lose our good bacteria, the communication changes, with the dangerous bacteria sending threatening calls, and even declaring war against us. These calls bring in cells from your immune system (essentially your police and army) to restore order and remove the threat. In order to remove these bacteria, your immune cells cause even more damage to the intestinal neighborhood, until all the bad bacteria are removed. At this point, the good bacteria are able to move back in, the neighborhood is rebuilt and harmonious intestinal communication is restored.

The researchers working with Dr. Bruce Vallance in the CHILD funded lab at the BC Children’s hospital are working hard to understand how bacteria talk to our intestinal cells, and what happens when communication is disrupted-which can occur in people who are genetically susceptible to inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). IBD is thought to occur when intestinal cells are unable to distinguish between the calls made by good and bad bacteria. As a result, the immune system may over-react to every single telephone call, resulting in chronic intestinal inflammation and damage. While many of the current drugs we now use for IBD can effectively block inflammation, they also sometimes block the calls from good bacteria, making it hard for the intestine to function or heal properly. Therefore, our goals are to develop better therapies aimed at restoring the normal conversation in the gut-perhaps by altering the normal gut bacteria through diet or other factors, or be re-educating intestinal cells to “listen” to the signals from gut bacteria, and respond appropriately.

NEWS FLASH! CONGRATULATIONS DR. VALLANCE!

The CH.I.L.D. Foundation is pleased to announce that Bruce Vallance, PhD, CH.I.L.D. Foundation Chair in Pediatric IBD Research, in collaboration with international colleagues, have a research study published in the prestigious journal Science. The paper addresses how bacteria live and compete with each other in the GI Tract and shows how damaging bacteria that can cause gut infections, or colitis, can outcompete the good bacteria in the intestines, and how the good bacteria can kick out the damaging bacteria by competing for the same food sources. Dr. Vallance states, “it is not a cure for IBD, but it will ultimately help determine how to remove dangerous bacteria from the intestines of children or adults”. Congratulations Dr. Vallance! And kudos to Andy Sham within the CH.I.L.D. Foundation Lab.
